The arguments in the Guiteau case have been finished and the court has taken the case under advisement until Monday next.

Oscar Wilde says he learned while out West why Nature is green; and the West learned while he was out here, why he is silly: It's Nature's nature to be green and Oscar Wilde's nature to be silly.

A dispatch from Racine says that the board of directors of the Racine Silver Plate company held a meeting Tuesday afternoon and decided to raise the capital stock $25,000, and erect a building immediately.

The Rt. Rev. Samuel Fallows, now a bishop of the Reformed Episcopal church, formerly Superintendent of Public Instructions for this State and chaplain to the Thirty-second Wisconsin and Colonel of the Forty-ninth Wisconsin has been re-elected orator of the Society of the Army of the Tennessee.

A lady in Chicago named Mary E. Dudley, was suspected of stealing some goods from Partridge & Co., and a warrant was issued that her premises might be searched for the goods. Nothing was found, and Mrs. Dudley brought suit against the firm, and finally compromised by receiving from them $500.

The strength of the Independent movements are making in Texas are showing, is alarming the Democrats exceedingly, and they are looking anxiously about for a popular candidate for Governor who can hold the party together solidly. The only man who, it is thought, is able to do this is Governor Roberts. As he has declined a renomination, an effort is making to get him to reconsider his decision.

There is an item going the rounds of the press that an octogenarian hermit in Cincinnati is causing a good deal of comment in that city. He is a business man worth $250,000, exceedingly charitable, who secluded himself twenty years ago in a suburban house in consequence of a quarrel with his wife, and has lived there ever since, reading the newspapers, but seeing no one.

Mr. Lawrence Barrett has been so successful in acting during the past seven or eight years, that his fortune has vastly increased, and he has purchased an elegant winter residence on Fifth avenue, New York, in addition to his palatial summer home near Boston. This summer Mr. Barrett will spend in London. He still continues his reading of Greek and Latin, in which he is well versed, and in ancient and modern history he is particularly bright.

Before Dr. William Curran, of Philadelphia, died, he made a will giving the Philadelphia Trust Company a portion of his estate to be held in trust until it had accumulated a fund of $500,000 the income of which was to be used for the establishment of a college for the higher education of young women. The will was contested, but Judge Biddle has rendered a decision. Laying it. After all it is a sort of a useless will as it will take about one hundred years before the fund could be made available.

The Milwaukee Republican makes this comment on the state of business in Congress: "Over six thousand bills have been introduced in the House of Representatives at the present session, and nearly two thousand in the Senate. The total number of bills introduced in both houses up to Saturday last, was 8,208. If either house should sit ten hours a day for six months, Sundays excepted, it would have but eleven minutes to devote to each bill and resolution. But it is not practicable to hold sessions that will average more than five or six hours; hence only about half the time mentioned could be spared. The bills and resolutions could not even be read at length by the clerk in a six months session. Under the circumstances, it is not strange that ill digested measures are sometimes passed."

The hardness of the human heart and the blunting of the senses were never more strikingly shown on the gallows than at Clinton, Illinois, on Friday, when Patsey Devine was executed. In the language of the street he "shed game," throughout the entire service up to the falling of the drop, showing what might be called reckless ease and audacious self-possession. He not only did not seem to care about what was going to happen, but he stood up boldly and denied his guilt. When he marched on the scaffold and saw the trap door he clownishly put his right foot on it to test its strength; and when the black cap was about to be put over his face, he jokingly said, "O, wait a minute till I take this chew of tobacco out of my mouth." He was a desperate criminal, and had been twice tried and twice convicted for the foul murder he had committed.

The discovery which the Democrats of Indiana are alleged to have made—that a full State Senate must be elected this year—is likely to result in a queer complication in that State. The Democrats will adhere to their construction of the law, and will nominate and vote for candidates for a full Senate. The Republicans will only nominate and vote for half a Senate this year and the other half in 1884. The consequence will be that half of the Democratic candidates for Senators having no opposition will be elects this year, and the same number of Republican Senators will be elected without opposition in 1884. The Supreme Court will then doubtless be called upon to decide which set of claimants has a legal title to seats. That body is now composed of three Democrats and two Republicans. But the places of the Democratic members are to be filled at the election this fall. So this year's election will probably determine not only the complexion of the court but also that of the State Senate in 1884, which takes part in the election of Senators Voorhees's successor.

DIRE DESTRUCTION.

PARSONS, Kan., May 12.—Information comes up the road that the cyclone which so nearly destroyed the coal mining camps at McAllister, in Indian Territory, on the night of the 7th struck Mill Creek, or Mill Spring, lying east of the railroad, and wrought great havoc. Every house in the place was either destroyed or badly damaged; in fact, only one building was left standing, and that was turned into a hospital. One man named Taylor was killed. Two children were fatally hurt, and more than a dozen other persons wounded.

ST. LOUIS, May 11.—The Republican's Dallas (Texas) special, referring to the cyclone at Mill Spring, Indian Territory, mentioned elsewhere in a dispatch from Parsons, Kan., says: "George Taylor, Benjamin Lewis, and Johnson Calhoun were killed; Mrs. Carter, Mrs. Graham and three children, Mrs. Heald and four children, J. H. Gray, and Miss Mamie Moss are seriously wounded."

PARSONS, May 12.—The news from McAllister is that the people there are being provided for and attended to by those who escaped the force of the storm, and from outside sources. Supplies of different kinds have been sent there from Denison, and the doctors and nurses have gone there to look after the wounded.

DISAPPEARED.

ROCKFORD, Ill., May 12.—Oscar A. Johnson has mysteriously disappeared from this city. He came here from Carpenter-ville about four years ago and four months ago he was married to an estimable young lady from Mineral Point, Wis. Some of his friends think he has committed suicide, and others think he has eloped.

A BULLET IN HIS BRAIN.

MR. CARMEL, Ill., May 11.—At a dance ten miles below here, last night, a quarrel commenced between George Babb and Wm. Garrett, about a woman who has been Babb's wife, and after some words Babb drew a revolver and shot at Garrett, but missed him and the ball entered the brain of Stephen Dawson, who was standing behind Garrett. Dawson cannot live but a few hours. Babb escaped to Indiana.

THE GUITEAU CASE.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Mr. Davidge assumed his argument in the Guiteau case this morning, again addressing himself to the question of jurisdiction. It would be said to be simply monstrous to assert that the head of the nation could be murdered here at the very seat of government, and because he happened to die elsewhere, the sovereignty of this great nation should be powerless. It is now the duty of this Government to declare in plain and unmistakable terms the meaning of the statute of the United States, and vindicate the sovereignty of this nation recorded in their keeping.

Davidge closed by combatting the points of the prosecution regarding the testimony of experts and Mrs. Dunmore, and was followed by Reed, who emphasized the part he had taken in the opening address and closed his argument with an appeal to not send Guiteau to the gallows if grave doubts should be found to exist as to the jurisdiction of the court which tried him. The court adjourned till Monday, taken the matter under advisement.

DEATH OF JOHN RUTLEDGE.

WATERTOWN, Wis., May 12.—John Rutledge, an Ixonia pioneer, and ex-member of the Assembly from this, the First district, died at his home in Ixonia, last night, aged 64 years. He leaves a wife and three children.

BIGAMIST SENTENCED.

GALENA, Ill., May 12.—The bigamist Clark, of Muscoda, Wis., whose frequent exploits in the matrimonial line were published in the Inter Ocean a few days ago, was brought before Judge McGonigal, of the Grant county circuit court yesterday, pleaded guilty to the charges against him, and was sentenced to Waupun for one year and six months at hard labor, one day to be in solitary confinement. Clark took his sentence coolly, but afterward said he thought it too severe. He left soon after being sentenced in charge of the Sheriff for his new stopping place.

EX-GOV. WASHBURN.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., May 12.—Ex-Gov. C. C. Washburn, of La Crosse, Wis., who left Eureka Springs several days ago for Hot Springs, has not arrived here yet, and is believed to be detained by serious illness on the road. Dispatches from Chicago and elsewhere have reached here inquiring as to that gentleman's condition, but nothing definite can be heard of him.

WILL HANG.

DES MOINES, Ia., May 12.—Fountain W. George, found guilty of murder in the first degree, last week, was this afternoon sentenced to be hanged on the 10th of August, 1883. In the meantime for fifteen months, he serves in the penitentiary.

Never Too Late to Mend.

THOS. J. ARDEN, William street, East Buffalo, writes: "Your Spring Blossom has worked on me splendidly. I had no appetite; used to sleep badly and get up in the morning unrefreshed; my breath was very offensive and I suffered from severe headache; since using your Spring Blossom all these symptoms have vanished and I feel quite well." Price 50 cents, trial size 10 cents.

LAND GRANT DISPUTE.

MILWAUKEE, May 12.—J. W. Cary, solicitor of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road, yesterday returned from Des Moines, Iowa, where he formally entered a petition for the conferring of the lands secured in the recent Sioux City and St. Paul suit to the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Company. Judge Love's decision gave each of the two companies involved in the suit an undivided one-half of the 189,000 acres in litigation. Mr. Cary's petition was for the appointment of a board of commissioners to make a partition of the lands so granted. There was about 50,000 acres of land still standing in the name of the State of Iowa, which had never been patented to either railroad company, but as the State was made a party to the suit, the rights of all parties, it is understood, are fixed and settled by the decree.

BUFFALO BILL'S PILE.

CHICAGO, May 11.—Wm. F. Cody, better known as Buffalo Bill, is on his way to Cleveland to attend to a suit on a land claim in which he and his family are interested. He is confident that the litigation will result in his favor, and that he will in time be worth $1,000,000 to $3,000,000. This addition to his means will make him one of the leading ranchmen of the country. Before the suit was commenced a compromise at $300,000 was offered.

PROHIBITIONISTS.

MADISON, May 12.—The executive committee of the Wisconsin State Prohibition Amendment Association will hold a session in Madison on the 6th of June, to discuss the political situation. A general conference of temperance people will be held the following morning to discuss the propriety of holding a State convention or a three days' temperance camp-meeting at Lakeside, opposite this city, on Third lake, commencing August 4th. Chairman Giles, of the prohibition party, informed a Tribune reporter to-night that his people would very probably make no Congressional nominations, but a vigorous attempt will be made to capture enough members of the Legislature to hold the balance of power next winter. Where they can't pledge Republican candidates they will make Independent nominations. Giles says the Prohibition party has fire in its eye this year.

SUDDEN DEATH.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—James Q. Smith, a contestant for the seat of Representative Charles M. Shelly, Fourth Alabama District, died to-night of pneumonia, after an illness of less than forty-eight hours.

WISCONSIN MATTERS.

Articles of association were filed to-day with the secretary of State of the Northwest Sleigh company, at Milwaukee, capital stock $25,000, and the Bebb & Thomas Metal Manufacturing Company, of Milwaukee, capital stock $50,000.

Prof. E. S. Holden, Director of the Washburn Observatory, has been making arrangements to test the practicability of the late Prof. Watson's solar observatory to this State. Agents of the university have purchased a six-inch telescope, and Langley, of Pittsburgh, has lent his reflector to be used in making experiments. The object of Prof. Watson in building the observatory was to prove the existence of the supposed planet Vulcan, which he claimed to have seen during a total eclipse. Owing to its proximity to the sun it cannot now be seen. The above instruments, together with the special arrangements of the solar observatory, have been designed to obviate this difficulty. Before the end of June the success or failure of the solar observatory will be known to science.

The language applied to gems is purely fanciful, as is that of flowers. It is an old nonsense that has come down from the old time, and the sentiment ascribed to precious stones is as old as the tenth century, and for centuries was the controlling feature in making gifts of gems. The following is the imagined sentiment: Garnet, constancy and fidelity; Amethyst, sincerity; Bloodstone, courage and presence of mind; Diamond, innocence; Emerald, success in love; Agate, health and long life; Cornelian, contented mind; Sardonyx, conjugal felicity; Chrysolite, antidote against madness; Opal, hope; Topaz, fidelity; Turquoise, prosperity; Pearl, purity.
In the year 1010, during the reign of Malcolm I., Scotland was invaded by the Danes, who made a descent on Aberdeenshire, selecting the still hour of midnight as the time to make a descent on Staines Castle. When all was ready, and there was a new moon, the Danes, the inmates of the castle were asleep, they commenced their march. They advanced cautiously, taking off their shoes to prevent their footsteps being heard. They approached the lofty tower, their hearts beating in joyous anticipation of victory. Not a sound was heard from within, and they could scarcely refrain from expressions of delight, for they had but to swim across the moat and place scaling ladders, and the castle was theirs. But in another moment a cry from within aroused the inmates to a sense of their danger, the guards flew to their posts, and pursued the now-trembling Danes, who fled before them and the intruders were repulsed. The cause was that the moat, instead of being filled with water, was, in reality, dried up and overgrown with thistles, which pierced the unprotected feet of the assailants, who, tortured with pain, forgot their quest, and in dismay uttered the cry which had alarmed the inmates of the castle, and from that day the thistle has been the national emblem.

Advice to the Thirsty.

An always thirsty but very temperate man exhorts as follows:
"Here is a good authority—Albert Smith. You may possibly have heard him state the same thing, and it may be mentioned in his 'Story of Mont Blanc.' When I arrived at the Grand Mulets I took a small square of chocolate, and wrapped it round with snow and swallowed it, and found it most refreshing and invigorating. Snow is not portable, but chocolate is, and has the merit of not blowing up when heated, like the ammonia that anglers carry about with them to cure the midge bites.
"Also avoid cider. Delicious but fatal drink to takers of exercise. I can bear testimony to the fact that the more you drink of it the more you want to. I am credibly informed that Devonshire mowers and reapers can drink five or six gallons a day, and I can perfectly believe it.
"Never touch spirits under any circumstances. Dozens of lemons can be easily carried about, and with soda or plain water, or even that ghastly compound ginger-beer, a squeeze of a lemon is worth a King's ransom. There are two pre-eminent drinks for quenching the thirst, equal in merit, but a matter of taste to the drinkers—barley water and milk. I prefer the former. But if you would drink the latter at last, for a long time, in lieu of doubtful champagne, they would speedily discover a great difference, morally and physically. And if every leecher on the Thames were to keep a dairy and a 'cove' or two on the premises, thirsty oarsmen would make his fortune in a few years."—London World.

A Distinction with a Difference.

A very dilapidated-looking tramp entered the counting room of one of Jersey City's wealthiest storekeepers, and, coming up to the desk, asked:
"Ain't your folks from Posey county, Indiana?"
"Yes."
"And your name is John Smith?"
"Yes."
"Shake! You have at last found your long-lost brother Bill. I am in need of money."
"Here is a quarter. Take it and go."
The long lost brother turned over the quarter a time or so, and then said:
"Is a quarter all you can spare your long lost brother?"
"That's all. Go now, or I'll call a policeman," said the merchant.
"I'll call the quarter on account of our relationship. That is a family matter; but, beside being your brother, I'm a tramp and a dead-beat. Now I speak to you professionally. Give me another quarter."
The Human Pulse.
Physicians have always attached, and all ages, the greatest importance to the frequency of the heart's action as indicated by the pulse. The number of pulsations of the heart, as stated by Dr. Milne Edwards, average seventy per minute in a male and from six to ten more in a female. The pulse of Napoleon, however, was much below the average. That of Sir William Cuvier is said to have been about 125 per minute even in health. But, as a general thing, the variations at Guy's, as called by Milne Edwards, have been verified by observation.
The following table of the pulse is interesting in this connection:

Age.	Males.	Females.
2 to 7	90 to 100	80 to 90
8 to 14	80 to 90	70 to 80
15 to 21	70 to 80	60 to 70
22 to 28	60 to 70	50 to 60
29 to 35	50 to 60	40 to 50
36 to 42	40 to 50	30 to 40
43 to 49	30 to 40	20 to 30
50 to 56	20 to 30	10 to 20
57 to 63	10 to 20	0 to 10
64 to 70	0 to 10	0 to 10

What She Called Him.

A well known educationalist vouches for the truth of the following: A teacher in a lower grade in one of our public schools received a new pupil—a little miss of four years, named, say, Mattie Brown. After taking her name for the school rolls, according to the custom, the teacher said:
"What is your papa's name, Mattie?"
"Mr. Brown."
"Yes, but what is his first name?"
"Don't know—his name is just Mr. Brown."
"Yes, yes—I know," then, as a bright idea struck her, "What does your mamma call him?"
"Oh! I know what you mean now," the innocent child replied; "ma calls him a darned old fool!"
It is safe to conclude that the teacher did not register the child's father as D. O. F. Brown.—Rochester Union.

Sentimental People.
Oh! how I detest your sentimental people who pretend to be full of feeling, who will cry over a worm, and yet treat real misfortune with neglect. There are your sentimentalists! I have seen in a dining room, when by accident an carving has come out of a peach, after having been half-killed in opening it, one would exclaim, "Oh! poor thing! you have broken its back—do spare it—I can't bear to see it suffer. Oh, there, my Lord! how you hurt it; stop, let me open the window, and put it out." And then the husband draws out, "My wife is quite remarkable for her sensibility; I married her purely for that." And then the wife cries, "Oh, now, my Lord, you are too good to say that; if I had not had a grain of feeling, I should have learned it from you." And so they go on praising each other; and perhaps the next morning when she is getting into her carriage, a poor, half-starved woman begs charity of her, and she draws up the glass and tells the footman another time not to let those disgusting people stand at her door.—Lady Stanhope.

Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" perfectly and permanently cures those diseases peculiar to females. It is tonic and nerve, effectually allaying and curing those sickening sensations that affect the stomach and heart through reflex action. The back-ache and the "dragging-down" sensations all disappear under the strengthening effects of this great restorative. By druggists.

It works wonders upon the Digestive apparatus. ZOPES, from Brazil, acts as a gentle purgative, cures Dyspepsia, removes languor and low spirits, gives energy and capacity for work. Sold by Prentice & Evenson.

The Character of Hannibal.

Almost as wonderful as Hannibal's victories over nature or his enemies, were his victories over his own followers. Under the spell of his genius, the discordant members of a motley Carthaginian army—disaffected Libyans and Numidians, barbarous and lethargic Spaniards, fierce and rickety Gauls—were welded into a homogeneous whole, which combined the utmost play of individual prowess with all the precision of a machine. No whisper of dissatisfaction or of mutiny was ever heard in Hannibal's camp. Italians deserted by thousands to Hannibal; but no Hannibalian veteran, even when his star was on its wane, ever deserted to Rome. Politics as he was brave, and generous as he was far-sighted, Hannibal could arouse alike the love and the fear, the calm confidence and the passionate enthusiasm of all the various races who served under his standard. The best General, a high authority has said, is he who makes the fewest mistakes; but what single mistake can the keenest critic point out which marred the progress or checked the success of these three first extraordinary years? They are years, moreover, of one of which might have been marred the reputation of any lesser commander. Unfortunately we know Hannibal only through his enemies. They have done their best to malign his character; they have called him cruel, and happily every specific charge of cruelty supplies us, even with our imperfect knowledge with the materials for its own refutation. They talked of "Punic ill-faith" till they came themselves to believe in its existence, or to think that the name proved itself. We know Hannibal, let us repeat it once more, only from his enemies; but in what character, even as painted by his friends, can we discern such vivid and such unmistakable marks of greatness? The outline is commanding, imperial, heroic; and there is no detail with which our materials enable us to fill it in at all, which is not in perfect harmony with the whole.—Rome and Carthage.

A Fearful Visitor.

The bane of the beautiful island of Martinique is a serpent called the "iron lance." This reptile, with venomous taste, chooses the coolest and most delightful places in the garden for his retreat, and it is literally at the risk of one's life to lie down on the grass, or even to take a rest in an arbor. The wounds inflicted by these serpents are very apt to be fatal unless immediately cured. The whole island is infested with this dangerous reptile, and it is said that on an average nearly 800 persons are bitten every year, of which number from sixty to seventy cases prove fatal, while many others result in nervous diseases which are almost as bad as death. A few years ago, when Prince Arthur of England visited this island, a grand fête was given in his honor in the Jardin des Plantes. In the evening the grounds were brilliantly illuminated, and thousands of people strolled through its cool and shady avenues. A large number were bitten by the "iron lance," and many of them never recovered from the effects of the poison. The fondness of this terrible reptile for cool and shady places is a serious drawback on the pleasure of rambling through the charming groves of Martinique. A rest on the grass under the shadow of some spreading tree is always haunted by the dread of unseen dangers, and one cannot even cross a field without exercising extreme caution.

Dumas' Generosity.

The son, then a lad of 18 or so, met a friend on the boulevards. They had not seen each other for some time, and Dumas suggested that they should dine together. "It's far from home," he observed, "but I've just 15 francs in my pocket, and I dare say we can manage pretty well on that." As a matter of fact, there are restaurants in Paris where you may get a pretty little dinner for two, and a sound bottle of wine into the bargain, for that sum. Still it is rather a tight fit, and great was the joy of Dumas when they had proceeded a few paces to behold his father on the other side of the street. "Wait a moment," he exclaimed to his companion, "I'll run across and get some money from him." The friend beheld him in earnest conversation for three minutes, then Dumas the younger returned, looking rather crestfallen. "Well, has he paid up?" "No; and what's worse, he's gone and borrowed my 15 francs. I'm afraid there's nothing left for it but to go home." To do the papa justice, he was extremely generous with his money when he had any. He loved to change his notes into gold and pour the coins into a wooden bowl which lay on his writing-desk. Everybody who came to ask for coin was then bidden to help himself.—London Truth.

Mark Twain on War.

When you leave a battle-field always leave it in good order. Remove the wreck and rubbish, and tidy up the place. However, in the case of a drawn battle, it is neither party's business to tidy up anything. You can leave the field looking as if the City Government of New York had bossed the fight. When you are traversing the enemy's country, in order to destroy his supplies and cripple his resources, you want to take along plenty of camp-followers. The more the better. They are a tremendously effective arm of the sorcery, and they inspire in the foe the liveliest dread. A West Point professor told me that the wisdom of this was recognized as far back as scripture times. He quoted the verse. He said it was different from the way it reads in the old one. I do not recollect the exact wording of it now, but I remember that it would put something about such and such a devoted army being as "terrible as an army of burners." I believe I have not further to add but this: The West Point said a private should preserve a respectful attitude to his superiors, and seldom, or never, proceed so far as to offer suggestions to his General in the field. If the battle is not being conducted to suit him, it is better for him to resign. By the etiquette of war it is permitted to none but the rank of newspaper correspondent to dictate to the General in the field.

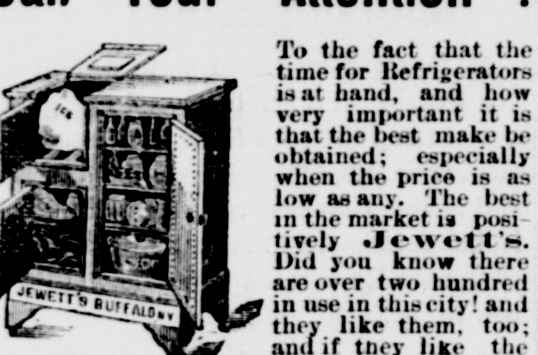

It acts directly upon the stomach, liver and kidneys in a remarkable manner ZOPES from Brazil, is only appreciated by those who have tried it. Every bottle warranted to cure Dyspepsia. Sold by Prentice & Evenson.

SUNDAY SUBJECTS.

The Pastoral Letter of Bishop Welles to the Episcopal Clergy.

The Subjects to Be Discussed by the Janesville Clergy.

Bishop E. R. Welles has issued the following pastoral letter to the Episcopal clergy and congregations of Wisconsin.

to be read in the churches May 14, 1882.

MILWAUKEE, May, 1882.—My Dear Brethren: On Sunday, May 14, the first quarterly offering for the mission year of 1882-3 is required by Canon to be made in all the congregations of the diocese.

By Canon, also, it is required that the mission pledges be made during the months of March and April preceding. It is the will of the diocese that systematic pledges and systematic offerings should give character and efficiency to our mission work. The plan is admirable. If faithfully and conscientiously adhered to, its results will be a general and continued increase in missionary spirit in the diocese, and a steady extension of missionary operations throughout its borders. During the year past the stipends of the missionaries have been promptly paid, and yet, by reason of neglect or remissness on the part of many in this diocese, the work of missions has not been at all adequate to its pressing needs; nor have we availed ourselves of golden opportunities in any way commensurate with their existence. In behalf of the missionaries, faithful and unwearied at all times and under all circumstances, for the sake of the work which is so full of encouragement, and in the name of Him whose servants we are, I ask for the coming year a more general and generous interest in the work of missions in the diocese. Two of our missions are about to become self supporting. If to the stipends thus released for new work, a sum could be added by increased offerings sufficient to procure three additional missionaries (at least $600,) five missions could be organized during the summer at points which would soon become important centers of church work. In every parish or congregation where the pastor makes the matter of mission pledges and mission offerings a personal concern, there will always be found on the part of some, a glad response to pastoral effort, and consequently, in the congregation itself a growing interest in the blessed work of missions; and in every parish or congregation where individuals count it a privilege to give for his work there will be felt, in all spiritual matters the great beneficence of goodly influence and example. The testimony of saintly lives that earth has ever known is that the soul conformed to the image of the Crucified grows more like Christ by what it does. It strengthens by prayerful work. The calling of the Christian is to do good to all men. In this calling are the germs of salvation. The work is life long. It involves sacrifices. It requires faith. It demands love. It calls by day for unwearied zeal, and its memorials are prayers and alms. Affectionally, your friend and bishop,

E. R. WELLES.
